

Tip of the day

Walk in the Fanes-Senes-Braies Nature Park

Ponticello - Prato Piazza

Medium hike on one of the most beautiful plateaus of South Tyrol which is located in the middle of the Fanes-Senes-Braies Nature Park. Immediately after Ponticello starts the winter path that takes you to the top. In the last section, you have to follow the road.

Starting point: Ponticello (1,500 m)

Walking time: 1.5 hours

Maximum height: Prato Piazza (2,000 m)

Altitude difference: 500 m

Event

The largest Easter egg hunt in the Dolomites

The Easter Bunny hid Easter eggs all over the shop windows in town.

Those who find them all have the chance to win nice prices.

Go ahead and start your search in the shops of the pedestrian area!

Everybody can participate! (Just fill out a card and hand it in within the 10th of April at the Tourist Office)

Location: Innichen / San Candido

Phone: +39 0474 913149

Email: info@innichen.it

Legend

Origin of the Pragserwildsee lake

The Pragserwildsee lake probably owes its origin to a landslide, but a legend tells a different story: long time ago, the savages lived in the mountains, they were by no means malicious. They owed the name the savages to their oversized figure, which could be compared with the mountains. There was a lot of gold in the stones. The savages loved the shine and shimmer of the precious metal. For a long time, the savages lived all alone in the wide mountains, but then shepherds came down into the valley and grazed their cattle on fields that lay below the mountain peaks. The savages showed the people the gold. But at some point, the shepherds were overcome with greed for the gold, so they stole the gold from the savages. In the end, there were constant quarrels between the savages and the shepherds. So that the shepherds, could no longer come too close to the mountains, the savages opened all the springs that were in the back valley. So, since the savages had created the lake and the valley of the shepherds was called "Pragsertal valley", the lake was called "Pragserwildsee lake" according to this legend.

Weather - Preview for Braies

Sunday

Monday

Tuesday

Wednesday

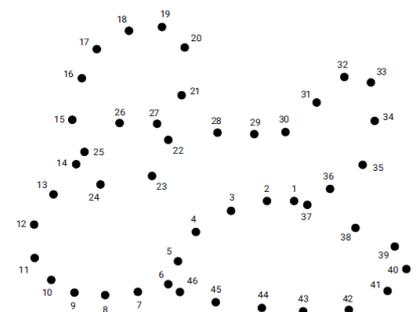

Thursday

Very cloudy

In the morning mostly sunny. In the afternoon some cumuliform clouds. In the North Föhn wind. High temperatures between 9° and 19°.

Monday mostly sunny with some high clouds passing through during the afternoon. Rising temperatures day by day. Tuesday more clouds and in the North unstable conditions. On Wednesday cloudy, during the day first rain showers, in the evening and night more precipitations. Thursday unstable conditions.

The Braies Valley Tourism
Association wishes you a pleasant stay!